

Abstract of the Disclosure

A light emitting diode traffic signal apparatus and method used for shaping and directing a desired beam path of light. The apparatus orients a plurality of 5 LED lamps using a mounting surface assembly coupled to a traffic signal head. The method includes orienting the plurality of LED lamps by mounting LED lamps to a surface assembly within the traffic signal head. The surface assembly is oriented using predetermined calculations.

10

15

20